Dear Sirs,

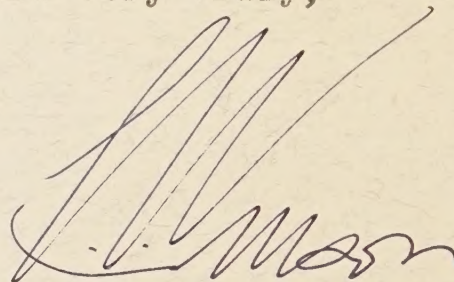

I am wondering if you can give me a list of firms or governmental agencies who issue or deal in medals?

At the present time I have about 65 medals, principally those issued by the French Government together with a few others that friends have picked up for me in France.

I am interested in collecting from an artistic standpoint rather than from that of either rarity or historic interest.

Any information that you can give me will be very greatly appreciated.

Yours very truly,

Dear Sir:

Replying to your letter of the 25th, medals are so little collected in this country that there is no one concern that specializes in them. By writing to the superintendent of the Mint, Philadelphia, you can obtain a pricelist of the medals struck by them and which are for sale. One of our members, Mr. William C. Langdon, 195 Broadway, New York City, is an enthusiastic collector of medals and often has such for sale. I am also enclosing a list of dealers. Most of them have at random medals that come in the course of trade, though none of them stock up.

I hope this information will prove fruitful.

Very truly yours,

Curator.
